The only feature you'll need from the current Excel file is the COMMENTS (hit CTRL+F). The current Excel file does contain more than one sheet, only the first one shows the comments, the others have other information. There's no data in the first two sheets. The advantage of splitting the file like this is that you don't need to export the source code archive using Excel. WinZip can split archives on the fly. Alternative 1: In the.ZIP file the source code archive will be inside another archive, with the name "EXCEL.COMMENTS". After that name the documentation archive would be named "DOCUMENTATION.ZIP". Alternative 2: On the first sheet of the.ZIP file the source code archive is named "CONTENT.ZIP". In the archive there will be another archive called "DOCUMENTATION.ZIP". Inside this archive there will be one more archive "DOCUMENTATION.TXT". The file will be named "COMMENTS". Alternative 3: On the first sheet of the.ZIP file the source code archive is named "CONTENT.ZIP". In the archive there will be one more archive called "DOCUMENTATION.ZIP". Inside this archive there will be an archive called "DOCUMENTATION.TXT". The file will be named "COMMENTS". The content of the ZIP file would be: "CONTENT.ZIP"
